

Overview of the Fiscal Year 2013 Budget

Missouri's economy is moving forward. The unemployment rate is at its lowest point in three years. The state's investment in worker training is enhancing the skills of tens of thousands of people. Groups like the U.S. Chamber of Commerce are pointing to Missouri as a top state for business growth and development.

Governor Nixon and the Legislature have worked together to balance the budget without raising taxes. Because of this fiscal discipline, Missouri has maintained its AAA bond rating from all three rating agencies, one of only a few states with that distinction.

The Governor's Fiscal Year 2013 budget priorities are: getting Missourians back to work through strategic investments; prioritizing funds for education, including record funding for K-12 classrooms and stable funding for scholarship programs; ensuring that resources are available to aid in disaster recovery; and continuing the fiscal discipline he has fostered since taking office.

The Fiscal Year 2013 consensus revenue estimate assumes $7.585 billion in net general revenue collections, a growth rate of 3.9 percent. This would provide $285 million above the revised consensus estimate for Fiscal Year 2012, but would still be over $400 million below collections for Fiscal Year 2008. Over the last three years, the Governor and Legislature planned a stair-step approach for the use of one-time federal stabilization funds. In Fiscal Year 2013, these funds will be fully phased out. Careful planning has allowed a gradual path to lower spending without the turmoil seen in other states. And, unlike over 30 other states, Missouri has maintained a balanced budget without raising taxes.

The Governor has already implemented cost saving strategies that have saved millions of taxpayer dollars. These initiatives include consolidating agencies, reducing state office and warehouse space, modernizing the state employee retirement system, reducing travel and other administrative costs, cutting the state's energy bill, and downsizing the state workforce. The budget for Fiscal Year 2013 builds on these efforts, including reducing state positions by over 800, bringing the total reduction since the Governor took office to over 4,100 positions. The Governor's proposed budget for Fiscal Year 2013 is lower than the Fiscal Year 2012 budget.

- The Fiscal Year 2013 budget is balanced through the following components:
  - $191.7 million savings through additional efficiencies in the Medicaid program, with no change in eligibility or covered services.
  - $89.0 million reduction for 4-year higher education institutions.
  - $64.3 million in additional debt collections and other revenue efficiencies.
  - $51.8 million increase from a tax amnesty plan, a bipartisan effort.
  - $41.0 million savings through debt restructuring.
  - $29.3 million in reduced staff and administrative costs, including a reduction in the Governor's office budget.
  - $16.9 million reduction for community and technical colleges.
  - $15.0 million in additional lottery revenue through advertising and other Lottery Commission initiatives.
  - $7.0 million reduction in biodiesel subsidy payments.
  - $2.0 million reduction in local public health agency grants.
- Items that are prioritized in Governor Nixon's Fiscal Year 2013 budget include:
  - $3.009 billion for the foundation formula, a record amount; an overall increase of $5 million and a general revenue increase of $203.2 million.
  - $99.8 million to provide stable funding for K-12 transportation.
  - $105.5 million to maintain available funding for the A+, Bright Flight, and Access Scholarship Programs, including a general revenue increase of $25 million.
  - $23.6 million for a 2% salary increase for state employees, effective January 1, 2013.
  - $14.9 million to maintain funding for the Customized Job Training Program.
  - $4 million to jump start innovation in science and technology as authorized in the Missouri Science and Innovation Reinvestment Act.
  - $2.2 million increase for the Partnership for Hope Program, which will be matched with $2.2 million local funds and $7.7 million federal funds.
